Nominee Fight Hobbles G.O.P. Spending in Other Races

By JONATHAN MARTIN 2:24 PM ET

The Republican National Committee's decision to hold off on some spending in hotly contested states is evidence of how a divisive presidential race is threatening the entire ticket.

Long Primary Fight Costs Clinton Time and Money

By NICHOLAS CONFESSORE and SARAH COHEN 58 minutes ago

Hillary Clinton has burned through tens of millions of dollars in states unlikely to be competitive in the fall and has had to slow a pivot to the general election.
